

HAVE THE FAMILY MEMBERS OF POLITICIANS BEEN THE GOLDEN GOOSE PATH FOR YEARS ?

0

0

It all started with a discovery that Vice President Joe Biden's son Hunter Biden was discovered to have let's say questionable connections with the Past Government of Ukraine and other countries such as China, which just happen to be also in political negotiations with Vice President Joe Biden.

According to sources, the Vice President was put in the contact position by President Barrack Obama and handled most if not all dealings.

It seems, Hunter Biden was appointed as a board member to Ukrainian Gas Company and began to receive several thousands a month in pay. The Problem here is he has no experience in any part of the Gas Industry. So! Why was he appointed and what was he being paid for?

There was a repeat of the same process in China, except this time the Chinese gave 1.5 billion dollars to Hunter Biden's Investment fund after a visit from his dad to China.

Again, neither Hunter nor members of his company have any real solid investment experience.

Does it look like what is being really uncovered here is a pay to play scheme, which has been utilized by the Clintons for years, through their so called Clinton Foundation.

Now, we have material and docs that show House Speaker Nancy Pelosi's son Paul Pelosi Jr may have been doing the same thing in 2017. The Docs show this information stems from the descriptions of two videos on YouTube promoting the related companies Viscoil Group LLC and NRGLab.

In a video filmed during the 2010 X Prize announcement, Nancy Pelosi introduced her son, who then promoted those two companies via video. The description of the video reads, "Paul Pelosi Jr. is a member of [the] management team of Viscoil Group of Companies and NRGLab. Paul Pelosi Jr. is interested in developing clean energy that can replace gasoline and diesel as transportation fuel sources."

The first video established Pelosi Jr.'s connection to a "gas industry company," while a second promotional video created by NRGLab allegedly established a link between that company and Ukraine.

The second video, which consists primarily of platitudes about the importance of renewable energy, states in its description that "[Eurovision singer] Mika Newton and other artists are actively involved in promoting the clean technology of Viscoil Group of Companies and NRGLab. ... Newton helped to secure the rights to build a plant for the production of SH-boxes in Ukraine."

As such, the entire link to Ukraine rests in the assertion that the company NRGLab built or intended to build a manufacturing plant for something called an "SH-Box" in Ukraine.

Here is the issue that clouds this information, An "SH-Box," according to a 2013 copy of NRGLab's business plan, is an electrical generator powered by crystal growth that would be capable of "delivering electricity to billions of people throughout the world at a cost so affordable that it was previously unimaginable, as are the potential profits to be realized as the company ... accelerates production."

Such a device, billed as scalable and cheap, would indeed change the world. The scientific assertions underlying such a breakthrough rested not on peer-reviewed scientific literature, but on a proprietary demonstration witnessed by a handful of non-experts who signed non-disclosure agreements while under the supervision of NRGLab employees.

Whatever became of the SH-Box? By all indications, nothing. The product was largely pushed by someone named Ana Shell who describes herself as "an environmentalist, business woman, the owner of the private fund of entrepreneurs-inventors [named] Territory of Shell." She has not mentioned an SH-Box in any of her blogs, websites, or Facebook pages since 2014.

NRGLab has since pivoted to selling supplements.

For what it's worth, we reached out to her via her website anashell.com. She responded that, "Project SH-Boxed were sold a long time ago to a private company in SEAsia.

She goes on to say there was no involvement of Paul Pelosi in that project."

[Viscoil] was based in Southern California and focused solely on U.S. business. The company later did reorganize under a different name [NRG Lab], but Paul Pelosi Jr. it appears did not play in any role regarding the new entity."

Pelosi Jr. has involved himself in myriad green corporate ventures that have not always panned out. It is unclear how Pelosi Jr. became involved with Shell, if at all.

There are several indications that her operation may not have been on the up and up.

What became of the SH-box It appears the answer is blowing in the wind.

In doing the story on a possible Paul Pelosi Jr. connection to Ukraine, we ran across this story that is interesting.

It appears, in 2014, that a company Co-founded by Paul Pelosi Jr. has been charged with Securities Fraud. The SEC is stating that a Company Environmental Investment Company called Natural Blue Resources was been hiddenly run by criminals.

The Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) charged a company cofounded by Paul Pelosi Jr. with fraud on Wednesday after learning that two convicted criminals were running the business.

Paul Pelosi Jr., the son of House Minority Leader Nancy

Pelosi (D., Calif.), was the president and chief operating officer of Natural Blue Resources Inc., an investment company he cofounded that focuses on "environmentally-friendly" ventures.

The SEC charged four individuals with fraud, including former New Mexico Gov. Toney Anaya, and suspended trading in the company's stock.

Pelosi owned more than 10 million shares in the company in 2009.

The SEC said Wednesday the company was "secretly controlled" by James E. Cohen and Joseph Corazzi, both of whom had previous fraud convictions.

Corazzi violated federal securities laws and was barred from acting as an officer or director of any public company. Cohen was previously incarcerated for financial fraud.

Cohen and Corazzi say they were "outside consultants," but according to the SEC, they actually controlled Natural Blue's business decisions. The "Pair" made hundreds of thousands of dollars off the company.

The SEC suspended trading in Natural Blue stock. A notice was filed in the Federal Register. It was revealed at that time it was revealed the company had not filed any periodic reports in 4 years.

"It appears to the Securities and Exchange Commission that there is a lack of current and accurate information concerning the securities of Natural Blue Resources, Inc. because it has not filed any periodic reports since the period ended September 30, 2010," Peterson said, in the order announcing suspension of trading.

Cohen, Corazzi, Anaya, and Erik Perry, a former executive at Natural Blue, were all charged with federal fraud violations. Anaya, who was Governor of New Mexico from 1983 to 1987, and Perry "misled investors by failing to disclose that Cohen and Corazzi were running the company in spite of their criminal or disciplinary histories," the SEC said.

"Natural Blue and its officers attempted an end-run around the rules designed to prevent recidivists from getting their hands on the controls of public companies," said Paul Levenson, director of the SEC's Boston Regional Office.

"While Natural Blue was ostensibly led by Anaya and subsequently Perry, management decisions made by Cohen and Corazzi resulted in no revenues or viable business operations for the company," the SEC said. "Anaya and Perry each deferred to Cohen and Corazzi in derogation of their responsibilities."

The SEC said Natural Blue made "various material misrepresentations about the company, its contracts, and its anticipated revenue in a February 2011 press release as well as on a website and verbally to investors."

While there is some dispute over Paul Pelosi's current connection to the company, the New Mexico Office of the Secretary of State Business Service Division Natural Blue as a company "not in good standing," with Paul Pelosi Jr. listed as its president.

Pelosi co-founded the company in 2009. The SEC said Natural Blue's mission was to "create, acquire, or otherwise invest in environmentally-friendly companies, including an initiative to locate, purify, and sell water recovered from underground aquifers in New Mexico and other areas with depleting water resources."

According to some docs, Pelosi served as president and chief operating officer of Natural Blue Resources, Inc. until January 11, 2010. Joseph Montalto is listed as the current president.

However, other docs cited Pelosi as Natural Blue's president last year in 2013 , and Anaya was still leading the company as chairman and CEO at this time.

Pelosi and Natural Blue Resources could not be reached for comment.

Anaya will be barred from participating in any penny stock company for at least five years, and fined an amount to be determined later.

Perry also settled with the SEC, agreeing to pay $150,000 fine, and permanently banned from serving as an officer or director of a public company and from participating in any offerings of penny stock.

So, far nothing has been done to Paul Pelosi Jr.

The point of giving you this information is simply to point out how family members of politicians are utilized politically and financially to give credibility to ventures that do not always turn out.

Their financial reward is based on just how strong their political name is. Usually, compensation comes with board appointments and shares.

Reviews

1 Review

Puh-leeze

"Hey Carl, you enjoying the Kool-Aid? Your emperor has no clothes..."

October 2019

Did you find this review helpful?

